STREET LEVEL PHOTOWORKS

© Glyn Satterley

'Scotland's Far North'
Glyn Satterley, Tom Kidd, Chick Chalmers

Three bodies of work from the late 1970s and early 80s which provide a unique insight into Scotland's remote landscape, islands and people. Glyn Satterley's project 'Scotand's Far North' presents a document of life in the neglected area of Caithness and Sutherland at a time when the myth was much banded about that the oil industry brought wealth and prosperity to the whole of Scotland. Chick Chalmers 'Orkney' project and Tom Kidd's 'Shetland' both present fascinating photographic essays of these island archipelago's at a time of change with the effects of the oil industry on the traditional life of these cultures. Candid and sympathetic, these photographic essays show that Scotland's far north managed to take its place in the modern world without losing too many of the customs and traditions which give these places their special character and ethos.

A video work created in partnership with Regional Screen Scotland for Screen Machine can be viewed at: streetlevelphotoworks.org/event/scotlands-far-north

HIRE FEE
£2000

SPACE REQUIRED
50 - 100 linear metres (maximum)
* Exhibition contents can be edited according to the exhibition space.

EXHIBITION CONTENTS
93 prints, framed
Glyn Satterley
(15) 61x46cm, (11) 49x37cm
Tom Kidd
(15) 61x46cm, (16) 49x37cm
Chick Chalmers
(21) 57x46cm, (15) 52x40cm

INSTALLATION
Mirror plated

TRANSPORT
One way transport (UK only)

EDUCATION
Hiring venues can adapt their own learning templates and practice accordingly.

STREET LEVEL PHOTOWORKS

Installation Views

STREET LEVEL PHOTOWORKS

Installation Views

STREET LEVEL PHOTOWORKS

Installation Views

STREET LEVEL PHOTOWORKS

Installation Views

STREET LEVEL PHOTOWORKS

Chick Chalmers

Sheep being brought from their grazing on the small island of Copinsay for sale in Kirkwall

Boiling crabs at Orkney Fishermen's Society Ltd.

Hen plucking

'Yard of Ale' competition, Stromness Shopping Week

STREET LEVEL PHOTOWORKS

Glyn Satterley

Practising piper, County Show, Dornoch.

Approaching Dounreay atomic reactor establishment from Thurso.

Tattie picking, John o'Groats.

STREET LEVEL PHOTOWORKS

Tom Kidd

John and Jeannie with pet lamb, Nesting.

Airport fireman, Scatsta.

Boy in boat near Scalloway.

Return of the fishing party, Sandwick